The Multicultural Education Series provides the latest research and practical knowledge about ways to reform education so that all students will have an equal opportunity to learn. It also provides knowledge about ways to improve academic achievement and race relations in educational settings. The books in the series are written by distinguished authors such as Linda Darling-Hammond, Sonia Nieto, James Loewen, and Christine Sleeter—as well as by younger scholars like Anne H. Charity Hudley and Tyrone Howard. The books in this series address issues crucial to the education and well-being of our next generation.
